

Why choose LEECORK ?

Specialties and advantages of LEECORK flooring products

LECOS-1000

LEECCORK applies a “7 coats” UV cured satin acrylic coating system (named LECOS -1000) to cork flooring as the company standard coating system for residential and light commercial use. This system shows the specialties of high wear resistance, high flexibility and low emission rates that other UV coating systems are hardly able to match.

LECOS-2000

Besides LECOS-1000, LEECCORK offers a high quality water based matte polyurethane coating system (named LECOS-2000) on cork flooring as an ideal solution for extremely high traffic area. This system is extremely durable and has excellent scratch and wear resistance. It can be applied to not only the unfinished cork flooring that LEECCORK supplies, but also the cork flooring pre-finished by LECOS-1000 even after installation!

NAPRO TEC

By new processing technology (named NAPRO TEC) researched and developed by LEECCORK and her associates, the hardness and density of cork parquet tiles are much more improved than many competitions you could find in the market. Moreover, another benefit of cork parquet tiles of NAPRO TEC is to improve the dimensional stability of tiles.

Custom options

LEECCORK provides with custom options such as density, dimensions, patterns, color staining, anti-curl treatment & beveling.

R&D

As a professional cork flooring supplier, LEECCORK has never stopped being engaged in R&D of new technologies and unique patterns of cork flooring by close cooperation with the foreign leading cork flooring companies and her industrial suppliers.

High quality & outstanding Service

LEECCORK supplies the high-end cork parquet tiles of more than ten exclusive patterns to one important customer. Although these tiles of exclusive patterns are not acceptable to be supplied to other customers, this is still a good sign of high quality and outstanding service that LEECCORK presents.

Packing

At LEECCORK, cork parquet tiles, putting face to face, are shrink wrapped in cartons. The advantage of this packing helps to prevent tiles from shape changing and tiles curling affected by any extreme humidity and temperature conditions during transportation and inventory.

Installing & maintaining

Adhesive, finishes & floor care products for installing & maintaining cork flooring are also available at LEECCORK.
